

PERIOD OF TREMENDOUS GROWTH FOR 1952 GIVES PROMISE FOR SUCCESSFUL CAMPBELL NEW YEAR

Incorporation of the City of Campbell, in the special election last March was the biggest single news event of the year as a review of the Campbell Press files show. Since that time 26 ordinances have been adopted relating to various aspects of a new city government. City administrative personnel has grown from the originally elected five councilmen, and city clerk, to a total of 17, including a city attorney, city engineers, planning consultant, city treasurer, fire chief, and a recently appointed seven-member planning commission. Only change in personnel was the resignation of city clerk Viola Krug, who resigned due to illness.

The nine-month old city is also a going business concern with its present bank balance close to $30,000, the highest since incorporation.

Along with the new city government, Campbell organized a two man police force with officers Louis Doolittle and Robert J. Locke recently bolstered by the addition of a fourteen man auxiliary force under officer Locke and the police commission of the council.

In addition Campbell Justice of the Peace Martin S. Walsh, became Campbell's first police judge when the city set up the local court to serve until the new justice court for Campbell, Los Gatos, Saratoga goes into effect today.

The city has enjoyed a population and business growth, best evidenced perhaps by the increase in school and church attendance and building program.

Presently under construction or in the planning stage is $696,000 worth of church building and close to 2 million in school construction.

Cambrian Park Methodist Church held ground breaking ceremonies December 7, for a $400,000 church at Wyrick and Gunston Way, consisting of 350-400 seat sanctuary, fellowship hall, kitchen, chapel, church office and Sunday school and nursery rooms.

St. Lucy's Catholic Church on Rincon Ave. is preparing to construct a $195,000 eight room parochial school at Kennedy Ave. and the Santa Clara-Los Gatos Road between Kennedy Ave. and Whitehall street.

Campbell Methodist Church is planning construction of an $80,000 church northwest of their present location.

Campbell Baptist Church is presently building after ground breaking ceremonies Sept. 7, a $20,000 church auditorium at 115 Sunnyside Ave.

School construction rose to an unprecedented rate during the old year.

Three new schools were completed in 1952 in the Campbell Union Elementary School district along with new construction on the High School, Campbell Grammar School, Moorpark, and San Tomas.

Cypress school was completed at a contractor's cost of $338,862. Rosemary School at 285 W. Hamilton Ave. is now finished at a contractor's cost of $348,017, and El Quito at 500 El Quito Road cost $314,470.

In addition construction of new Hamilton School has started with a starting cost of $202,924. A new addition is in the planning stage. New 1952 construction at Campbell Grammar School, Moorpark and San Tomas totals $304,688.

National elections occupied a prominent portion of news coverage in 1952, and made news in Campbell when the city registered an 87 per cent turnout, one of the highest percentages in the state. Biggest election news in Campbell aside from the successful incorporation vote was the defeat of the West Valley Hospital bond issue, $999 to 3084 and the election to board of directors, Mrs. Charles Chubb, Richard R. Garrod, and William L. Mattenberger.

In another election in June, Campbell Union School district turned out a record vote to approve a $600,000 bond issue 1939-321, to expand classroom space in new schools and to build a new school on Hazelwood site.

Most notable changes in the Campbell Business scene in the past year was the addition of new chiropractors Dr. Wayne Gregg, and Dr. Glen Stoops, new doctor Joseph M. Kootsey, and new jeweler Russel G. Frey, new grocer, Henry Langevin, new pharmacist, Harry Algar, new taxi company under Ernest L. Gee, and recent Krug Mortuary merger with Darling-Fischer Chapel in San Jose.

In the public information department Campbell clubs and organizations for the most part start out the new year with a new slate of officers and plans and policies for a bigger and more successful new season. Latest addition in the club set-up in the Campbell area was the organization of a new Masonic Lodge in the Cambrian Park area last month called the George E. Tutt lodge with Lawrence E. Hendricks, installed as worshipful master.

In the Campbell Press, former advertising manager, James Allen, became publisher of The Saratoga Observer and Cupertino Courier. Robert M. Vane, University of Illinois graduate and former Chicago newspaper ad man took over Press duties. Lou Murphy succeeded Mac Bowe as editor. Mrs. Miles Standish became society editor, and Irvin Lapp and James Fox joined the staff as printers.

Dr. Robert M. Wade and Edward F. Tablak were chosen to lead the Campbell Community Service Fund Drive which almost reached its $18,500 goal through the conscientious effort of public spirited citizens.

Scourge of sleeping sickness which swept the state in 1952 struck Campbell lightly in August when 4½ year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Blackmun of Harriet Ave. was taken to the hospital.

Deaths and births during 1952 were too numerous to mention but the city mourned the loss of I. O. McConnell, popular proprietor of Campbell Shell gas station who passed away. George W. Shattuck, Orchard City Grange master too is missing from the Campbell scene as is W. Calvin Bohnett, pioneer resident and Vestal "Buck" Royce, Campbell businessman.

The city also recorded its first auto traffic fatality under jurisdiction of the Campbell Police department when Joe Pete Chiotti died in an auto accident at intersection of San Jose-Los Gatos Road and Campbell Aves., August 18.

On the brighter side, old-timers Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Collins, 721 McCoy Ave., and former Campbell Methodist Church pastor, Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Bowling were feted at Golden Wedding anniversaries. The Collins' were married 50 years Sept. 7, the Bowlings' November 2.

Another important event for Campbell sports fans was the Santa Clara Valley Athletic football championship tie won by the local High School grid team, coached by Jim Muir, which swept the tie victory by defeating defending champions, Los Gatos Wildcats, in the Thanksgiving Day little big game.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

KRUG MEMORIAL CHAPEL MERGES WITH DARLING-FISCHER CHAPEL TO BETTER SERVE WEST VALLEY

Gilbert Krug, of Krug Memorial Chapel, 151 E. Campbell Ave. has recently completed arrangements to consolidate equipment and facilities with Darling & Fischer Garden Chapel, San Jose Funeral Directors.

Krug, in announcing the merger, said that due to the recent development of the area and influx of new families to the West side, the expanded funeral facilities would better serve the growing community.

Krug announced there would be no change in policy and that he would remain in complete charge as he has in the past. It has been agreed, Krug said, that all equipment and personnel of the two Mortuaries will be at the disposal of the local Chapel.

Krug, a graduate of the San Francisco College of Mortuary Science, served with the Army Air Force during World War II. Before coming to Campbell he was associated with the Wessendorf Mortuary in Santa Cruz. He is both a licensed embalmer and funeral director.

Roger Darling has lived in San Jose and vicinity for over 50 years. He has been in the funeral directing business for nearly 30 years.

Clyde L. Fischer, a resident for 43 years in San Jose, joined Mr. Darling in 1943. His son Jack G. Fischer affiliated with the firm in 1947 upon graduating from the San Francisco College of Mortuary Science.

The Krug Chapel dedicated on Palm Sunday 1951, is a completely modern funeral home of a size and equipped to do justice to the large west valley area which it serves. Its chapel is fully equipped with all the necessary denominational furnishings for all types of religious services. The appointments for Catholic services have been blessed by the St. Lucy's parish priest, the Rev. Denis Kenneley.

Seating capacity for 100 persons is provided in the softly lighted chapel whose walls are finished in gold. The woodwork is of a soft grey hue, and the drapes at the windows are of maroon. Vertical venetian blinds are hung at the windows beneath which are brass planters with ferns.

Adjoining the chapel is the family room where families of loved ones may hear and view the service in private, separated from their friends in the main chapel by a one-way transparent gold gillidore curtain. The family room is furnished with comfortably upholstered chairs.

All rooms downstairs have wall-to-wall carpets with the exception of the slumber room whose floor is covered with a large rug. A natural hardwood floor has been laid in the casket display room upstairs.

Other features of the establishment are the reception room, arrangement office, organ and music rooms and lavatory facilities. Ample off street parking area, all hardsurfaced, has been provided at the side and rear of the building.

DELAYED BY RAIN?

Mr. Stork failed to arrive in Campbell New Year's Day, it was disclosed through a check of the various hospitals serving this area. The check was made New Year's Day to determine the lucky new mother and baby who are to receive various gifts from Campbell merchants for the first baby born to a mother whose mailing address is Campbell. The Press hopes to bring the name of the new arrival next week.

Cross Country Hop Costs Local Sailor Dollar and Quarter

Ordinarily, it takes five days to cross the United States and quite a bit of money, but Campbell Navyman C. D. Cutting made it from Jacksonville, Florida to Campbell in 24 hours for $1.20.

Cutting hitchhiked on a Navy airplane from his southern base to Alameda Airport and accepted an automobile ride from a sympathetic stranger from there to the door of his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cutting on Harrison Street, last Wednesday, for a surprise four-day holiday visit.

One full meal costing $1.20 was his total cash outlay for the cross country trip, he said. But Sailor Cutting takes all this as a matter of course. Before being stationed at the Florida Air base, he completed a lengthy cruise of the Caribbean Sea area.

Cutting is equally at home in the air. While stationed at the Florida field, he found time, in his off-duty hours to engage in his favorite pastime—flying.

He now holds a commercial as well as an instructor's license. Both tickets were earned in his off duty hours, with his own money, at a nearby commercial airport.

He left Campbell Sunday to join his ship, the "Tarawa" at Quonset Point, Rhode Island, and will sail shortly on a six-months cruise of the Mediterranean.

Kirkwood said additional duties include work as a member of Franchise tax board, board of Equalization, Water Resources Board, and Board of Control.

Kirkwood mentioned that an election to fill vacancy created by his appointment in the 28th district should be held.

PASTOR'S SON ENROUTE TO DUTY IN KOREA

Second Lt. James H. Olds, U. S. Marine Corps, with his wife Dorothy and daughter Victoria Elizabeth have arrived at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Corwin H. Olds, 150 North Second Street.

Lt. Olds is on leave en route of duty in Korea. His wife and daughter will live in this vicinity during his absence.

Lt. Olds, 23, has recently completed a 20-week basic course in the duties and responsibilities of a junior Marine Officer ashore and afloat, and of the duties of an infantry platoon leader.

After reconvening as a meeting of the planning commission Morton, City Attny. Joseph A. Bonacina and Planning Consultant Nestor Barrett gave short talks broadly outlining functions of the new city officials.

Morton welcomed the new group, thanked them for accepting the appointments, and urged immediate organization.

Bonacina mentioned that terms of office would be staggered to permit easy transition. He emphasized that ultimate planning decisions, under the present administrative set-up would fall to the city council.

Barrett, with whom the group will mostly work, repeated that organization should be the first concern. Election of a chairman and secretary, and arrangements for time, place and frequency of meetings as well as a decision on a quorum should be decided at once, Barrett said. Barrett warned against using the zoning ordinance as a "crutch" from which to start planning. He said the main thing to consider in "Thinking about planning" was to decide what kind of city we want to live in.

"Planning begins and ends with the individual, not the zoning ordinance", he said. Planning is based on making a better environment for families to live in.

"The zoning ordinance has the same relation to planning as a hammer has in building a house; it's just a tool to work with," he said.

Barrett told the commission his office had prepared large land use maps in color showing present uses of land. Maps were drawn after a field survey based on aerial photographs taken earlier by the army Air Force.

Present land use provides a logical starting place, Barrett told the commission, and will, to a degree, affect future development.

"The zoning ordinance, also, must reflect decisions of the individuals of the commission as to ultimate land uses," he said.

In other action at Monday night's meeting the council:

(1) received a warrant from Motor Vehicle in lieu funds for $2758.26 for the period June 1, 1952 to November 30, 1952.

(2) started proceeding to annex seven tenths acres on property at Hamilton and Leigh Avenues to create continuity of ownership by Campbell Union School District.

(3) set January 12, 1953 as the date of public hearing on application of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Relph of Railroad Avenue for a land use permit to erect a cement block commercial building on property located at lot number 6 Railway Avenue of the Rucker Subdivision.

YOUR HONOR, I MET MY WIFE IN A VERY FUNNY WAY. I RAN OVER HER IN MY CAR AND LATER MARRIED HER?

IF EVERYBODY DID THAT, THERE WOULDN'T BE SO MUCH RECKLESS DRIVING?

SNAPDRAGONS CAN HELP SOLVE GARDEN PROBLEMS

Snaptagons are the most versatile of plants that grow well most any place in your garden and can be used to brighten those bare spots or to fill hard-to-plant areas. A small mass planting of Snaptagons or hydrants; that narrow dragons will screen porch foundation of soil between driveway and house wall; and sunny walls where reflected heat makes it difficult to grow any plants.

Set out Snaptagons from flats now. They will soon start to spread a green curtain over those bare spots, and will bloom in March. Space the plants 8" apart, and pinch them back when they are 6" tall to encourage bushier growth. You will find a variety of colors available, including yellow, scarlet, red and orange, as well as lighter tones and white, according to the Bedding Plant Advisory Board.

Where you want height, plant the "maximum" type of Snap-dragon, which grows three to four feet tall and should be tied to stakes. For two-and-a-half foot growth, plant the "tetraploid" type of Snaps. Many good varieties of both types are offered.

In a good sized flower bed, your Snaptagons' bright colors provide a lively show against a background of Pacific Hybrid Delphinium, with its blue flower spikes. In front of the Snaptagons, Stock will go well; Imperial Stock if you have planted Maximum Snaps. Ten-Week Stock if you planted Tetras. Or plant some Bachelor's Button, with its gray-green hairy leaves, to provide added foliage contrast.

For a final edging, or directly in front of the Snaps where space is limited, a row of Forget-Me-Not (Myosotis), or Violas with their delicate blue or yellow flowers, will provide just the right finishing touch.

TIPS ON PRUNING NOW'S THE TIME

During the winter months and before growth starts in the spring is the time for the home orchardist to prune his fruit trees, grapes and berries. Pointers on this work come from Farm Advisor L. C. Barnard, of the University of California:

If a fruit tree has a large amount of new growth, this indicates that the tree was pruned too heavily the past year, and doesn't need as severe cutting. Leave more brush in trees and do not cut new growth back too heavily.

When cutting off branches, make certain there is no stub left as such stubs do not heal over.

Branches in the top should be headed back to prevent them from bending over and breaking. However, side branches need to be thinned out rather than be cut back, and those that remain should be the straightest ones, those which later will develop into the "hanger" type" rather than upright.

The home orchardist seldom needs to prune his citrus, walnut, and cherry trees except to shape them and remove interfering branches.

With cane berries, all wood that bore a crop this year should be cut out, and the new wood should be placed on supporting wires and cut back about one-third.

All varieties of grapes are not pruned the same. Your farm advisor can give you information about your variety.

If you set out new fruit trees, remember to cut them back to about knee high, except cherries and walnuts which should be cut back to about four feet.

WOMEN'S WORK

NEW YORK—One of the many scientists dedicated to the search for a cancer cure is a beautiful New York woman, Dr. Jane Wright, who believes that the answer lies in drugs.

Her evaluations of the effectiveness of drugs in the treatment of the dread killer have been translated, abstracted, and quoted all over the world.

Each day from nine to five, except week ends, Dr. Wright works at the Harlem Hospital, administering drugs to terminal incurable cancer patients and evaluating the drugs' efficiency.

Father A Doctor
"We have found some drugs to be partially effective," said the slender, 35-year-old physician.

"That is, they inhibit the growth of cancer somewhat. Finding a drug that will cure... well, that is our great hope."

Dr. Wright's devotion to medicine and research came from her late father, Dr. Louis Wright, who was the first physician to use the antibiotic aureomycin for human treatment. He also invented several devices for treatment of fractures.

But hers is not the story of a girl who always wanted to be a physician.

In her high school and college days she had many interests. She was an honor student, captain of her high school swimming team, an excellent artist, and once was a member of a dance troupe that made several professional appearances in New York.

It was during her years at Smith College that she decided to study medicine. After graduation, she enrolled at New York Medical College, studying under a four-year scholarship.

Private Practice
She specialized in internal medicine, and, after an assistant residency at Bellevue Hospital and two more residencies at Harlem Hospital, she became chief medical resident at the latter. She worked with the New York health department as a school doctor for a while, and then began to work as a fellow with the Harlem Hospital Cancer Research Foundation under her father's direction.

The foundation was established by him with the aim of finding a drug to cure or inhibit the disease. After her father's death, she kept on with his work in research.

Now, after the long hours at the hospital, she handles a private practice in internal medicine in the office her father once had.

Dr. Wright is married to Davis Jones, a lawyer—with a U. S. government agency. They have two children.

Dr. Wright is a gentle, soft-spoken woman who looks more like a dancer than a physician. Her sincerity and interest in humanity show in the words she used when asked of her plans for the future.

'My plans are to continue to seek a cure for cancer, to be a good mother to my children, a good wife to my husband.'

OLD TIME AUTOMOBILES ARE FAR CRY FROM TODAY'S STREAMLINE MODELS

Yesterday's automobile was a far cry from the modern machine marvel which is seen on today's highways and in the dealer's show rooms. With the automobile show period upon California, National Automobile Club recalls the cars of yesterday many of which are not too well remembered. Nameplates were things of real beauty and a

American Business Behind The Scenes

by Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—Changes in relationships between government and business, obviously in the making with the advent of Eisenhower, have begun to make themselves felt even before the Truman administration bows off the stage.

Charles Sawyer, secretary of Commerce proposes to replace the present cat-and-mouse system of anti-trust law enforcement with "conferences" between companies and the Justice department to make sure the companies don't get too close to the borderline between competition and conspiracy.

Also, the National Security Resources Board proposes that the government end its monopoly of atomic energy development. At the same time, from outside the Board, more demands are heard that massive government participation in natural resources development, urged by the Paley Report, be disavowed by the incoming administration.

The intricate machinery of controls over our economic life is being allowed to coast to a standstill. Resistance to Republican policies may yet show up in the top layer of bureaucracy—the permanent staff which is supposed to implement policy (but more often makes it) for appointed administrators. So far, however, everyone seems willing to let the new administration make its own record. Paradoxically, all this is perhaps a greater challenge to business, newly enfranchised as a full partner in the country's affairs, than were the years of exile from the nation's top councils.

MORE CANS IN 1953—Sales of an American can company in 1953 are likely to go as much as 10 per cent above record-breaking 1952 figures, declares William C. Stolk, Canco's president. Mr. Stolk feels that this is a good omen for the economy as a whole, since an increasing array of the products of industry are packed in cans. The container industry has two important factors sending it to new highs almost every year: population is growing at a rate which may add 30 million Americans in the 1950-60 decade, and the average housewife today opens 776 cans a year compared to the 486 of 1939.

SULPHUR SHORTAGE OVER—U. S. industry faces 1953 assured of ample supplies of sulphur after weathering a two-year shortage, according to Langbourne M. Williams, Jr., president of a sulphur company. Government estimates place supplies in 1953 at seven million tons, maximum used and exports at a total of 6,637,000 tons.

There are nearly 100 projects under way to produce more sulphur in 23 countries of the free world, Mr. Williams said, and these are expected to add four million tons to early output by the end of 1955. Freeport's Bay St. Elaine collector of them would have something of value as well as intricate art. Indeed, yesteryear, the National Automobile Club's own radiator emblem for members was an expensive multi-colored baked enamel and lacquer design which was wired to the radiator core or cap. With modern design, this type was abandoned almost two decades ago by National Automobile Club.

The Dagmar had twenty-five animal figures and other intricate patterns worked in five colors; the exquisite wild goose design of the Wills-St. Claire; the clever "hat-in-the-ring" of the Rickenbacker; the chaste and lovely cameo of the Diana, and the golden bronze bas-relief of Sir Galahad that embraced the Yellow Knight.

Some speculation is voiced as to which American used the first nameplate attached to the radiator. The Leach Gizzy Bear, Apperson Jack Rabbit and the Duryea Triangle all have good claims to priority.

Many readers will recognize names which will revive memories of the days when motor cars were still horseless carriages. Newspapers then discussed the Grand Prix, Elgin Road Race, Sheldon Patents, Vanderbilt Cup, Glidden Tour. Famous names like Winton and Oldfield claimed columns of space.

At the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, four or five horseless carriages were shown. Since then more than one thousand American cars have come into existence but less than thirty remain on the market today. The Horseless Carriage Club perpetuates some of these cars of yesteryear. A few of the popular make of days gone by included: Kisel, Haynes, Westcott, Stutz, Lexington, Halladay, Cole, National, Moon, Rollin, Velle Chalmers, Maxwell, Marquette, Pathfinder, Fremont, Chandler, Case, Elcar, Jordan, Bobbs, Clark, Winton, Comet, Leach, Paterson, Stevens Duryea, Stearns, Colby, Davis, Rapid, Grant, Anderson, Premier, Locomobile, LaSalle, De Vaux, Star—too many to list. In their day, mine, only floating sulphur plant in the world, went into production late in 1952. Two other Freeport projects are under way in Texas and Louisiana.

GAS APPLIANCES GAIN—Despite a slow start, gas appliance sales this year probably amounted to $1.2 billion, says James F. Donnelly, president of the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association. Increasing sales are credited to the trend in housing—public, private and remodeled—toward use of the whole family of gas appliances, including water heaters, clothes dryers, incinerators, comfort heating and air conditioning as well as refrigerators and ranges.

Factory shipments of ranges this year were some 2.2 million, a little under the total of 1951, and production of gas water heaters 1.9 million.

BEST YEAR FOR RUBBER—Looking into 1953, John L. Collyer, president of a large rubber company foresees the best year in history for the rubber manufacturing industry, with a probable gain of 11 per cent in total tire sales. Not only will automobile manufacture continue at a high rate, but many of the cars made in the last three years will require replacement tires.

The Gambles will stay in this area for about a month, and will divide their visiting time at their children's homes.

For part of the month the Gambles will stay at the home of their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Russ Gamble at 663 Kenneth Street.

$40 MILLION HOME SALES—Levit and Sons, Inc., often called the Henry Ford of the home-building industry, built more than $40 million worth of homes in 1952, and sold most of them before the first nail was driven in the spring. Scene of greatest activity was Levittown, Pa., where the first pre-planned city since Major L'Enfant laid out Washington in 1790 is springing up on 5,000 acres of Buck's County farmland. There a three-year program of erecting 16,000 homes is under way—4,000 in 1952, 6,000 each in 1953 and 1954. At completion, the city's 70,000 inhabitants will make it Pennsylvania's tenth city.

PLANE OUTPUT PEAK AHEAD—The nation's airplane manufacturers will turn out almost as many planes in 1953 as in 1951 and 1952 combined, Mundy I. Peale, president of Republic Aviation Corp., predicts. Republic is now the free world's largest producer of jet aircraft. Its backlog of orders for the F-84 Thunderjets and Thunderstreaks amounts to more than $1 billion. The entire industry has a backlog of defense orders of some $15 billion as 1952 ends.
